

Annapolis Good Trouble Lives On march and rally | PHOTOS

capitalgazette.com/2025/07/17/annapolis-good-trouble-lives-on-march-and-rally-photos

Paul W. Gillespie

July 18, 2025

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

PUBLISHED: July 17, 2025 at 10:39 PM EDT

Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death.

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way around State Circle as they march from City Dock to Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Betsy Hartman wears a John Lewis inspired Good Trouble hat and earrings during the rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

At the urging of speaker Carl Snowden, convener of the Caucus of African American Leaders, rally goers turn to each other and say "I love you." Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally goes at Lawyers Mall, including Callie Burns, center applaud the speakers. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

State Senator Shaneka Henson gives remarks. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Annapolis Alderman DeJuan Gay gives remarks at the Lawyers Mall rally. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Carl Snowden, convener of the Caucus of African American Leaders, gives remarks at the Lawyers Mall rally. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Annapolis Pride Board Chair Joe Toolan gives remarks at the Lawyers Mall rally. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Rally goer Faye Belt holds her bottle of water high as the group toast the late John Lewis at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way around State Circle as they march from City Dock to Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way around State Circle as they march from City Dock to Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way around State Circle as they march from City Dock to Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Rally goer Baird Straughan listens to the speakers at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

A pro Trump flag is unfurled as marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest "attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration" on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis' death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Evelyn DeJesus, Executive Vice President of the American Federation of Teachers, gives remarks. The rally at Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

Marchers make their way around State Circle as they march from City Dock to Lawyers Mall. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)

A passerby shouts pro Trump messages as he films the marchers make their way over the Spa Creek Bridge from Eastport to City Dock in Annapolis. Good Trouble Lives On marches and rally at Lawyers Mall were held in Annapolis to protest “attacks on our civil and human rights by the Trump administration” on the fifth anniversary of Civil Rights leader Rep. John Lewis’ death. (Paul W. Gillespie/Staff)