Looking to refresh your kitchen or bath? Want to get out of the house for the day? Need a plumber or a pediatrician?

The Best of Anne Arundel County can help with a little guidance from Capital Style readers. More than 7,500 votes were cast in this year's readers' poll, culling a list of the 118 top people to know, places to go and things to do.

Editor's note: Winners and honorable mentions were determined by popular vote. Readers were invited to nominate and vote online in February and March. Janice Holmes, left, and Virginia Amundson, owners, sit with Maude, center, at their shop, Old Fox Books on Maryland Avenue in Annapolis. The shop has been voted Anne Arundel County's best book store.

Bookstore: Old Fox Books & Coffeehouse

35 Maryland Ave., Annapolis. 410-626-2020. oldfoxbooks.com

Looking for a place to grab a coffee and find a good book? Old Fox Books & Coffeehouse offers both along with a unique vibe that makes it beloved by the community.

"Everything is intentional with how it's decorated," said co-owner Virginia Amundson. "Everywhere you turn there's something new to catch your eye. I also think that the location has an old community feel that makes guest comfortable as soon as they come in."

The bookstore replaced Annapolis Bookstore when it opened in 2016, but the building has been used for other businesses including its start as an old family grocery store back to the 1870s.

Amundson runs the shop with Janice Holmes, who previously worked for Annapolis Bookstore.

"I left Annapolis Bookstore but when the space became available again Jinny showed up and I just had a good feeling that we could do this together," Holmes said. "When the moment is right the right person appears."

Holmes and Amundson feel strongly about cultivating a sense of community. That passion is expressed in how much they have put into the bookstore.

"It's a labor of love," Holmes said. "We put our all into it."

PERSONALITIES

Joseph Toolan of Annapolis has been voted Anne Arundel County's best activist. He advocates for several issues, including the environment and LGBTQ rights.

Activist: Joseph Toolan

For Joseph Toolan, 26, participating and leading organizations within the community is important because growing up he didn't see people that looked like him doing things like that.

"I didn't see people of color or queer people leading in the spaces that I'm in now, so continuing to represent and show others what's possible is important to me."

He grew up in Pasadena but has been living in Annapolis for the past 5 years.

Toolan is dedicated to helping on all fronts as evident through the many roles he fills around the community. He's been working with the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation since August 2022, chairs the state of Maryland Commission on LGBTQ Affairs and also Annapolis Pride, whose mission is to advocate for, empower and celebrate the LGBTQ+ community in Anne Arundel County.

"It's really great to be in a position where I can continue to uplift and support others who traditionally haven't had access to certain spaces," he said.

Toolan also appreciates the opportunity to talk to so many people and get to learn their story.

"I feel in a lot of ways getting the chance to learn about others is the greatest honor and I feel good to be able to do that," he said.

Anna Graham has been chosen as best interior designer of Anne Arundel County. She opened Anna Graham Interiors in 2018.

Interior design: Anna Graham Interiors

301-275-9303. annagrahaminteriors.com

Anna Graham, 29, originally from Bowie, has known what she wanted to be when she grew up since watching home improvement shows on TV as a child.

In 2018 her dream became a reality and now — without any advertising — she successfully completes about 200 projects a year working for herself.

Whether it's a single room, a whole house or office space, Anna Graham Interiors is available to guide anyone through the design process.

Graham's commitment to excellence has garnered her plenty of recognition as she was selected by Pro Remodeler magazine in April 2020 as "Best 40 under 40?" and then in January of 2023 she was selected by the National Kitchen and Bath Association "Top 30 under 30."

"It's been a whirlwind but I'm enjoying every minute of it," Graham said. "I love this area and I love working with people from my hometown. I want to continue to grow, but I never want to lose the sense of familiarity and community that I believe my clients enjoy best."

Festival: Maryland Renaissance Festival

1821 Crownsville Road, Annapolis. 800-296-7304. rennfest.com

Here's what draws crowds to this faux English village from King Henry VIII's reign: the stage shows, the jousting, the jugglers. A love of history, food and the chance to play dress-up in period garb.

"Some patrons are into Shakespeare; others love the [16th century] music and the craft show element," said Carolyn Spedden, the festival's artistic director. "Some come just to sit with a beer in the pub and people-watch."

The event, now in its 47th year, routinely draws 300,000 people over nine successive fall weekends. Spedden acknowledges "the diversity of patrons from all demographics. Everyone feels comfortable here in a world that, in some ways, they create for themselves. Some come dressed in costumes, from pirates to fairies. They can be their authentic selves, and be accepted; no one is judged."

Here, folks can pad down the woodsy paths, nibble smoked turkey legs, peruse the handicrafts of some 140 artisans and, perhaps, meet up with King Henry himself between stage performances that are vetted for historical accuracy.

The festival provides escapism in a Brigadoon-like setting, said Spedden:

"When times are harder, it makes for a nice vacation, where people can get away from it all."

Ken Upton, the owner of Ken's Creative Kitchen, relaxes outside his office at the Annapolis Landing Marina. He started his catering business, Ken's Creative Kitchen, in 1987 after being a restaurateur for ten years.

Caterer: Ken's Creative Kitchen

980 Awald Road, Suite 201, Annapolis. 410-268-3222. kenscreativekitchen.com

Ken Upton reckons that he has catered 8,000 weddings in an array of receptions that includes "everyone from (Ravens' owner) Steve Bisciotti to the girl next door." For 46 years, Upton and his staff have entertained eminent glitterati and everyday people, all of whom expect to be pampered in elegant style — from the butler-served hors d'oeuvres to the entrees cooked on site.

"We believe in 'fresh,'" said Upton, 75. "All is made from scratch and the portions are generous, not specks of food placed on big plates with tweezers. And they are beautifully created. I could probably retire if we didn't spend so much on herb garnishes and flowers."

Hundreds of cookbooks in Upton's office portend the breadth of ethnic fare. French, Italian and Cuban. Japanese, Indian and Moroccan. A staff of 200 prepares cuisine for as many as 40 events a week, from corporate windings to hospital galas to more private gatherings.

"We catered a dinner for [the late] Prince Philip, of England, at [late author] Tom Clancy's home in Annapolis," said Upton. But nuptials are his bread-and-butter, nearly three-fourths of the business. Some families, he serves more than once:

"[Newsman] Ted Koppel has three daughters, and we did wedding receptions for all three."

Client Brittany McDuffie of Glen Burnie receives a massage from Jill Thomas, registered massage practitioner at Even Keel Wellness Spa in Annapolis Tuesday May 9, 2023.

Day spa: Even Keel Wellness Spa

31 Old Solomons Island Road, Suite 101, Annapolis. 410-990-0111. evenkeelspa.com

How calming are the massages here? Routinely, clients fall asleep.

"Sometimes, they start to snore. We've had to give them a little shake to wake them up," said Ashley Franz, CEO of Even Keel. The upscale rubdowns are a hit, with 14 types of massages on the menu.

"We customize each massage to fit our clients' needs, whether they come here with aches and pains or just to relax and forget about the world," said Franz, 34. "We meet them where they are, so that they leave here feeling better."

Twenty licensed therapists knead nearly 300 patrons each week, from marathon runners to mothers-to-be, and from nonagenarians to Naval Academy personnel. Facials are popular, too, among both sexes, with 11 different types from which to choose.

"Men don't want wrinkles, either," said Franz.

Staff offer treatments for dry skin, acne and rosacea. Brides come for makeovers — and, perhaps, a spray tan — before the wedding.

"Others want beauty service before attending funerals, where they're going to see people whom they haven't seen in a long time," said Franz.

But massages comprise much of the business, including those for married couples. Though billed as a romantic experience, some wives have asked to be treated in separate rooms. The reason?

"I don't want to listen to my husband snore his way through the massage," they say.
